MULTIDISCIPLINARY LOYOLA SYMPOSIUM CONTINUES

Sociology of sport this week

The multidisciplinary Loyola Symposium using sport as a microcosm in a study of contemporary man continues this week. The Chairman of the Sociology Department, Professor J. Tascone, is scheduled to deliver a paper on the "Sociology of Sport" at 1 P.M. on Thursday, March 9th, in the Drummond Auditorium.

Psychology rescheduled

Due to the power failure last Thursday, the Symposium event entitled "The Effect of Sport on Man's Psychological Functioning" was postponed. It has been rescheduled for next Tuesday evening, March 14th at 8 P.M. The lecture and slide presentation by Dr. Ladd of the Psychology Department will take place in Room 402 of the Administration Building.

Final Event

The concluding event, an award winning film "Tokyo Olympia" directed by Kon Ichikawa will take place as scheduled on Thursday evening, March 23rd, at 7 P.M. in the F.C. Smith Auditorium.
